HISTORY/FACTS/ISSUES:

The City of Coleman designated Mayor Caruthers as their negotiator once they recognized that our submitted documents of the ISBA were negotiable. The specific point of interest for the City of Coleman is for the continued operation of their physical library. This is a point that the County could provide a concession via the consolidation of their library service and the provision of the antiquated building and associated property to the County; however concessions in other contractual areas (consolidation of planning / building inspections / etc.) would be favorable. Regardless of the negotiated process no state aid funds will be directed to the City of Coleman for the library since the consolidated effort would impact the costs of the County and therefore the revenue would remain with the County. The cooperative agreement for library services will expire on September 30, 2010 and the City of Coleman would have been the only entity to enter into it since all the other cities consolidated this service therefore no cooperative library agreement will be required after October 1, 2010.

The next step is for me to provide objective dates for both parties to work towards to conclude this process successfully.
